Political Raiders Threaten Highway Trust Fund

In this column last Thursday, Sept. 21, we noted that the Senate had passed and sent to the House a bill to divert federal highway funds to rail transit systems, and while wire dispatches didn't say specifically that the money was coming from the Highway Trust Fund that was our educated guess.

And we were correct. The Wall Street Journal spelled it out in its edition Monday, Sept. 25, in a Washington dispatch written by Albert R. Karr:

"The administration plan initially had found tough going in Congress, but support lately has been gathering fast. The Senate voted 48 to 26 last Tuesday to let up to $800 million of the gasoline-fueled Trust Fund be used yearly to help finance transit systems, including both rail and bus equipment and facilities. The House is scheduled to vote on the highway legislation late this week or early next week, and administration Congress-watchers think their chances of winning on the House floor, while much less solid than in the Senate, are still reasonably good."

A special federal tax was levied on your car's gasoline, and was later increased, under the solemn promise these special tax funds would be placed in the Highway Trust Fund and never used for any purpose except road construction.

The primary road construction, of course, was the Interstate System.

But the Interstate System is approaching completion, and now the politicians in Washington want to raid the Trust Fund to build political fences in the shape of rapid-transit lines in the heavy-voting metropolitan centers.

A double-cross like this shakes your faith in government—to find the tax against your auto used for something that has nothing to do with building roads.

The Interstate System may be nearing completion, but it will take billions to maintain and improve and expand it in the years to come—and there won't be enough money if diversion to metropolitan transit projects is permitted. Obviously, to take care of future needs of the Interstate System the Washington politicians' next move after helping big city transit lines will be to ask you for another increase in the federal gasoline tax.

That'll be the day.

McGovern escalates dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern accused the Nixon administration today of interfering with the return of three American prisoners freed by Hanoi, saying President Nixon is afraid the men "will tell the awful truth about the war."

The Democratic presidential nominee said the truth is that American bombing keeps the prisoners in their cells.

McGovern escalated his POW dispute with the administration as he campaigned in California, joined by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, a rival-turned-ally.

He said he hopes his appearances with Humphrey will demonstrate that despite differences on some issues, "both of us want to beat Nixon."

McGovern forces also hope the teamwork will help California Democrats forget the bitterness of the McGovern-Humphrey presidential-primary campaign.

They look also for an assist from Humphrey in reclaiming the labor vote, and McGovern said he expects that 90 per cent of it will be in his column on election day.

Humphrey told his supporters in and out of organized labor: "You're not Humphrey supporters, you're Democrats, you go on out and work for George McGovern."

McGovern dealt with the prisoner issue in a statement prepared for a meeting of Northern California labor supporters, saying the administration denied a request of the three American fliers that Nixon "not impede their release."

The freed prisoners, Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, Navy Lt. Markham Gartley and Navy Lt. (j.g.) Norris A. Charles, arrived in Peking from Hanoi today, en route to the United States.

"We thank God that the men have been released, despite the administration's interference," McGovern said.

"In the last several days, we have seen that the Nixon administration is ... more concerned about the opinions those men might express than it is about speeding their release," McGovern said. "I believe the President is afraid these prisoners will tell the awful truth about the war—that it is the bombing that keeps them in prison."

But, he added, "Our main interest is in reuniting them with their families."

Prisoners step closer to home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three American servicemen released by Hanoi arrived in Peking today, one step closer to their expected arrival in New York City Thursday.

Seven of their fellow Americans still being held in North Vietnamese prison camps met Monday with the antiwar activists escorting the freed men home and called for an end to the war.

In the United States, it was unclear where the released men's first responsibilities lie — to their civilian or military sides.

The three men, Navy Lts. (j.g.) Markham Gartley and Norris Charles and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, wore civilian clothes as they stepped off the Chinese plane that flew from Hanoi to Peking with touchdowns at Nanning and Changsha in Hunan province.

Newsman were prevented from speaking with the men.

David Dellinger, head of the American peace group escorting the men home, said he didn't know when they would be leaving. But they are expected to depart Wednesday for either Copenhagen or Paris.

With the men on the trip home are Charles' wife Olga, Gartley's mother Minnie Lee, and the other antiwar activists — Cora Weiss, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin and Prof. Richard Falk.

Before leaving Hanoi the peace group talked with seven captured American pilots who were not going home.

Meanwhile, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern accused the Nixon administration of interfering with the return of the three freed men.

He said they had asked for a chance to choose civilian medical care and wanted 30 days leave.

"I believe the President is afraid these prisoners will tell the awful truth about the war — that it is the bombing that keeps them in prison," he said.

A Pentagon official told a newsman in Washington that the Pentagon regards the freed prisoners as active-duty military officers responsible for turning themselves over to U.S. authorities at the first opportunity.

In approving new rates, the PSC rejected a clause allowing Arkla to raise the rates automatically in the future to recover the costs of the pipeline project.

Moran said the order would establish an industrial gas rate that keeps Arkansas competitive with surrounding states.

Gas rate hike OK'd for ArkLa

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Public Service Commission approved Monday industrial gas rates it said would assure Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.'s ability to finance its Anadarko pipeline project. Arkla President W. R. Stephens did not seem to be thrilled by the action.

Stephens said he was not sure Arkla would be able to convince banks to lend enough money to pay for the pipeline. He said the rate allowed by the PSC will not be encouraging to lenders, but the real problem is the lack of an escalation clause that assures bankers Arkla will be able to collect for its huge investment in the pipeline.

"We're gonna try," Stephens said.

The PSC order sets an average rate of 31.22 cents that Arkla's large industrial customers will pay per 1,000 cubic feet of gas. This rate is slightly above the average paid by the industries under the old separate contract system that the PSC voided.

The rate is a little below the temporary interim rate of 32 cents allowed by the PSC in February, and commission Chairman Pat Moran said some refunds probably would be in order.

The PSC order does not affect rates charged residential

And the crowd didn't come!

Arkansas Lt. Gov. Bob Riley gave the dedicatory address for the new Third District horse barn Monday afternoon at the Fair Park Coliseum.

"Well," he said, as he looked out over the audience, "it is said where ever there are two or more..." Then he laughed.

There were only 15 persons in the audience — 15 scattered in chairs set up to accommodate more than 250 persons.

One man in the audience hollared, "I think I'll come up there on the stage with you." Riley looked behind him at the master of ceremonies and the backdrop of dignitaries. There were 17 people on the stage.

But the small crowd didn't faze the lieutenant governor and he swung into a speech praising all the persons who were helping to see that county and district fairs don't die. (See photos on next page.)

"We need fairs like this," he said, "and we need people like you to see that they stay alive."

APA argues for place on general election ballot

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Denial of a place on the general election ballot to candidate of the American party would be an abridgment of fundamental voting rights, the party said Monday in a brief submitted to the Arkansas Supreme Court.

A political party cannot be excluded from the ballot by a court simply because its membership is characterized as small without abridging rights guaranteed by the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the brief stated.

The party said the effect of a state law requiring the American party in Arkansas to submit petitions signed by 7 per cent of the number of voters in the last general election to get party candidates on the ballot was "to prevent the right of suffrage to certain citizens of the state of Arkansas by legislation and thus a denial to cast one's ballot for a candidate to one's choice."

The American party said the state had no compelling interest in keeping it off the ballot—that only the Democratic and Republican parties had such an interest.

Thomas A. Glaze of North Little Rock, lawyer for the plaintiffs, said in his brief that the question of the constitutionality of the Arkansas law was not even before the Supreme Court on appeal because the issue had not been raised in lower court.

Glaze originally filed a suit in Pulaski Circuit Court contending Secretary of State Kelly Bryant exceeded his authority by extending the deadline for the American party to file the petitions to get the party on the ballot.

Seven pilots meet with delegation

HANOI (AP) — Seven captured American pilots, most of whom were shot down over North Vietnam this year, met with members of an American peace delegation in Hanoi on Monday.

The meeting between the demim-clad pilots and antiwar activists came just one hour prior to the departure of the visiting Americans for the United States via Peking, with the three pilots released nine days ago in Hanoi.

The captured pilots who met with the delegation were Capt. David Hoffman of San Diego, Calif.; Capt. George Allan Rose of Fayetteville, Ark.; Lt. Donald Karl Logan of Northridge, Calif.; Cmdr. Eugene Wilbur of Columbia Crossroads, Pa.; Lt. Richard Fulton of Mesa, Ariz.; Lt. Greg Hanson of Thousand Oaks, Calif.; and Lt. Peter Callahan of Bellmore, N.Y.

The meeting took place in a downtown Hanoi building.

They entered the room in single file, smiling broadly and shaking hands with Cora Weiss, David Dellinger, the Rev. William Sloane Coffin and Prof. Richard Falk.

Western and Vietnamese cameramen were permitted to film the first five minutes of the meeting, which included introductions and beer drinking.

Capt. Hoffman was captured Dec. 30, 1971, and shared a prison cell with Lt. Norris Charles, one of those released.

"Charles probably told you already, and you can see I am in good health," Hoffman said. "Food is as good as they can possibly make it. I suffered a broken arm when I landed, and I received excellent medical attention. I think we are in far more danger from our own aircraft dropping bombs than we are from the Vietnamese. I want to go home."

Asked if he had any message for his family, Hoffman said, "I miss them. I wish they could do something about this damn war."

Cmdr. Wilbur, who has been in a prisoner of war camp for 4½ years, said, "Tell my family you have seen me. Use every facility to have them help you and the antiwar movement. Tell my wife I am working for it at this end. I have lived with a lot of people and the prisoners here have no complaints. When I say they want the war over, I speak for all the prisoners."

Asked by antiwar activist David Dellinger how he felt about the war, Lt. Callahan said, "If there is ever a group of men duped by the government here we sit. We will be disappointed if McGovern does not win."

Asked for his message home, Callahan said, "Tell my wife to keep plugging for George and how's the baby?"

Vietnam fighting tapered

SAIGON (AP) — While fighting in South Vietnam tapered off to its lowest level of the six-month Communist offensive, hundreds of U.S. jets and five cruisers and destroyers heavily bombed North Vietnam Monday, the U.S. Command announced today.

Air Force bombers attacked for the first time in the war a newly built major fuel depot at a key road junction 46 miles north of Hanoi, and pilots reported their bombs triggered explosions that covered an area the size of four city blocks.

The U.S. 7th Fleet disclosed that a task force of two cruisers and three destroyers led by the heavy cruiser Newport News exchanged heavy fire with North Vietnamese coastal defense sites. None of the U.S. ships was hit, the Navy said.

Striking under heavy overcast skies in a nighttime raid, the eight-inch guns of the Newport News blasted a supply depot three miles south of the big coastal city of Thanh Hoa, 80 miles below Hanoi, and shelled the Thanh Hoa railroad and highway bridge and a nearby pontoon bridge. The light cruiser Providence bombarded a boat yard three miles southeast of Thanh Hoa.

Sweeping 75 miles farther south, the Newport News, the Providence and the guided missile destroyer John S. McCain shelled the army barracks at the port city of Vinh, and supply and fuel depots on the outskirts of the city.

The La Danh fuel depot was the major target among more than 310 tactical air strikes carried out across North Vietnam Monday, the Command reported. Other raids were made against warehouses, army barracks, supply trucks and water craft.

Over South Vietnam, the U.S. Command reported the loss of two Air Force planes. A delayed report said a Navy F-7 was downed.

The Rocky Mount Extension Homemakers Club met Thursday, Sept. 21, at the home of Mrs. Ivan Bright. The president, Mrs. Alford Bearden, opened the meeting by giving the thought of the month. The group then joined in singing "Sew, Sew, Sew Your Seams". Mrs. Bright gave an inspiring devotional.

Mrs. Bright also gave the lesson on "Choosing and Using a Clothes Dryer" and each member answered roll call with their hint on dryer use.

The club set their meeting schedule for the year and elected club leaders as follows: Public Information and Family Life Education, and Youth—Mrs. Vonnie Edwards; Citizenship and Civil Defense and Clothing—Mrs. Ivan Bright; International and Home Management; Mrs. Alford Bearden; Health and Safety; Mrs. R.C. Gerald Keith is guest speaker

"The Quality of Life in the Cities of the Future" was the topic of a message brought by City Manager Gerald Keith at a luncheon which the Hope Council of Garden Clubs had at the Town and Country on September 21 with Mrs. Owen Nix and the Hope Iris Club in charge of arrangements.

The 53 in attendance were told that "society has set a higher value on water and sewer facilities than it has on trees," but after lamenting what is sometimes a necessity toward growth, he told the brighter side of the story by saying that "in July Hope used more electricity than was produced in an entire year by the old generator." He stressed the importance that civic clubs have in a community, and he told that the Park Authority will become more active in the future. When a question-and-answer period was held at the end of the prepared talk, the club members inquired about many civic activities and were given helpful answers.

Attractive arrangements of fall flowers were seen on the dining tables, and several nice door prizes were awarded. Mrs. Charles Carey presided over the luncheon meeting and made several announcements of interest to those attending. Luncheon guests were Mrs. Sam Shuman of Texarkana, Mrs. William Gooding of Galveston, Tex., Mrs. Wayne Bohannon, Mrs. Hansford Long, Mrs. Jerry Scroggins, Mrs. John Gambs, Mrs. C.P. Jones, Mrs. Charles Jester and Mrs. Bruce Duke.

Golden Age Club has luncheon

The Golden Age Club met September 21 in the Douglas Building for its monthly potluck luncheon. Father Joseph Enderlin was the guest speaker and brought a beautiful devotion titled "Paul's Letter to His Followers," taken from 2nd Timothy 4.

The Rev. G.W. Hooten led the group in singing, and the secretary treasurer, Mrs. Dora Wortham, read the minutes and called the roll with 16 members answering. She also gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Tilda Teveson was welcomed back as a member after a long absence. Mrs. Edna Hooten won the door prize, and a wide assortment of food was served at noon.

During a business meeting in the afternoon, plans were completed for a trip to the Golden Age Club of Malvern on Wednesday, September 27. The bus will pick up members at 9 a.m., so everyone is asked to be ready when it comes by their homes.

Mrs. Whitworth hosts Friday Bridge Club

Mrs. H.C. Whitworth was hostess for a meeting of a local Friday Bridge Club on the first day of autumn, September 22. The club members enjoyed a pleasant afternoon, and when the scores were tallied, Mrs. Whitworth was high.

If cream and cake were served for refreshments, and during the play coffee and cold drinks were also enjoyed.

Helen Help Us!

HELEN BOTTEL

Encore for "Mother the Nut"

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Long before you started "Generation Rap"—about six years ago, I believe—a letter appeared in "Helen Help Us" that I've "treasured" to tatters.

You see, my children cut it out and placed it on my dinner plate. They told me it reminded them of me. I felt so complimented that I have carried the clipping ever since in my wallet, but not it is in such bad shape I can no longer read it.

Could you please reprint it, not only for me, but for many families who have successfully bridged the generation gap. (I'm sending the shreds to give you an idea which letter I mean.) MOTHER NUT

DEAR MOTHER NUT:

My mother told me about the strange coincidences that make column writers feel somebody up there is pulling strings. Now I know what she means!

Couple weeks ago we received this letter:

Dear Rap: Remember the column about the "nutty mother" who sometimes cleans house at midnight and is a "collector of useless information" but an all-around terrific person? It was written by her daughter a long time ago, and I wonder if you could dig it out and reprint it? Now that I'm married, I want to be that kind of mother, too.—EXPECTING

"Dig out?" It would take an act of providence to find such a letter among the thousands in Mom's back files!

And whatayaknow? You were the act of Providence, "Mrs. Nut!" Thanks for sending the shreds. We put them together and here it is:—SUE

DEAR HELEN:

My mother is a nut. I wouldn't have her any other way. Living in our house is like living with Auntie Mame. And boy, am I thankful that she is the way she is instead of like a few other mothers I know.

Our house is never what you'd call spic and span. Not dirty, but not one to tippy-toe in either...lived in my sometimes on the cluttered side. Mom isn't the type to turn down a trip or a good talk session just because she has to get the house cleaned up.

Sometimes she's cleaning at midnight. Sometimes, when we want to talk, she hands us a broom or dust cloth and we all work without realizing it—chattering away because she's fun to be around and makes us feel important.

She hates schedules. Says they slow you down and make you "rigid."

Other day, I found a blown-up balloon in the freezer. You see, she is a "collector of worthless information" and she discovered this way, that a balloon never "loses its warm" even when ice forms on the outside.

She is forever "discovering" little things like this, and can always talk about something interesting, but she listens even better. All the kids come to our house because she lets them be themselves and knows when to disappear. She isn't like some mothers who have to be the center of the party—she lets us come to HER.

She has a zany sense of humor and a lot of patience. She even turns family fights into funnies, and we end up laughing at ourselves.

Mom is not perfect, and admits it. She gets herself into some hilarious messes with her odd arithmetic and her love of bargains. Dad sometimes calls her "My idiot wife" and thinks she's wonderful.

She sure isn't the matriarch type, and while we all look up to her and respect her suggestions (orders too: she can get tough when it's called for), we know she'll listen to our side.

Reading so many complaints about parents I thought you might like to hear of our nutty mother who can stuff eight kids into a station wagon, stuff a turkey, and feed us stuff and nonsense with equal ease.—COLLEGE GIRL

Will Spitz follow in wake of Weissmuller, Crabbe?

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Will Mark Spitz suffer from a case of tinseltitis?

Hollywood sweetly croons to him tunes of up to $5 million. A similar kind of cantic was sung for Johnny Weissmuller and Buster Crabbe, also Olympic gold-medal swimmers who went on to swing from trees in Tinseltown.

The temptation is fierce to waft toward the riches, and MARK SPITZ posed for this picture after he had won his fifth Olympic gold medal at Munich but two medals later he was refusing to be photographed unless he received a substantial fee.

Spitz in show biz

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope: "Are you a painless dentist?"

Mark Spitz: "I haven't hurt myself yet." This was part of the dialogue of a television skit that will mark the show business debut of Mark Spitz, winner of seven gold medals at the 1972 Olympic Games.

The 22-year-old swimmer broke into the bigtime Monday night by taping a Bob Hope special for airing Oct. 5.

Spitz came to Hollywood last weekend under the auspices of his new agents, the prestigious William Morris Office. His first appearance was for Hope, who called Spitz at his Carmichael, Calif., home to assure the date. The fee for the Hope show was estimated at $10,000. All this for working a day and a half.

At rehearsal, Spitz handled the gag lines well, with some coaching from the master, Hope.

"Mark went home and did his homework after the run-through last night," the comedian remarked between rehearsals. "He knows the lines, but he reads them too fast. He's gotta learn to wait for the laughs."

Hope said Spitz had been offered his choice of three scripts from the comedian's gag writing factory: a Western, a movie saga with Hope as an aging Tarzan being replaced by the younger Spitz and a spoof with Spitz as a fledgling dentist.

Spitz, a dental student at Indiana University, chose the last. The skit included three kisses by Julie Bennett, a busty redhead who portrayed his nurse.

At a news conference earlier, Spitz left no doubt that his swimming career was over.

"I haven't even been in the water since I finished the last race," he said.

Spitz's agents said he had received, but not yet accepted, film offers from MGM, Warner Brothers, director Vittorio de Sica and others.

Hope remarked, "I think he's got a real future in our business. He's a real inspiration to the youth of our nation. And what an athlete! He makes Superman seem like Truman Capote. I call him Fort Knox with fins."

Tatum runs record touchdown for Oakland Raiders

CHICAGO (AP) — "I guess I'm No. 2 now," laughed 76-year-old George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears.

"Anyway, he didn't have Jim Thorpe chasing him. Son of a gun, come to think of it, Thorpe actually caught me. But it was muddy and I skidded into the end zone for the last eight yards."

Halas was jovial in accepting condolences from friends over Oakland's Jack Tatum having broken one of the oldest records in professional football on Sunday.

Halas had the record for nearly 50 years. On Nov. 4, 1923, George Halas of the Chicago Bears picked up a fumble and ran it back 98 yards for a touchdown against Marion, an old-time professional team from Ohio.

Tatum picked up a Green Bay fumble and rambled 104 yards for a touchdown which helped the Raiders score a 20-only the fortitude of a Ulysses, who roped himself to a ship mast so he could hear the Sirens' song but not go destructively toward it, might keep Spitz' feet on the ground.

Offers for Spitz to become a movie star (as opposed to a true thespian) have originally dealt with the role of Tarzan. Weissmuller and Crabbe both have played that part.

Perhaps, like most of us, they were looking for the rainbow; but possibly they mistook Hollywood's papier mache version for the real thing.

Spitz' most recent heroes are Bobby Fischer and Joe Namath, both of whom are original individuals and staunch capitalists. Spitz is apparently particularly struck by the latter quality. He has not been photographed wearing all seven of the gold medals he won in Munich because he was seeking to get a sublime price for such an esthetic shot.

And when the brainstorm struck that Spitz might be terrific at bellowing "Umgawa," he supposed that dental school could always be postponed a year while he turns apeman.

Spitz told Time Magazine that he did not want to end up like Weissmuller or Crabbe because they "were looking for something they couldn't seem to find." How did they end up?

Both are now in their late 60s. Both have rather kicked around, to use an aquatic phrase. They have sold swimming pools, and images (a Hollywood vestige). "Don't mess with my image," Weissmuller once told a reporter. "I am a good example for the youth."

We can see Crabbe on late television commercials, stomach sucked in, peddling paunch-hiding undershirts.

Both have some of what Jesse Owens has, the mark of "a professional good example," as Bill Johnson calls Owens in the book, "All That Glitters Is Not Gold."

But values are often quickly distorted when the quick buck sashays past.

"They promise me a million dollars and I sign the paper where they tell me to," said Weissmuller. He is not broke now, but he is apparently not fulfilled either.

Spitz playing Tarzan would be done for money, the same reason Weissmuller and Crabbe and Chita scratched their armpits on the screen.

Spitz has said that he eventually hopes to become half as good a dentist as he was a swimmer. The hope is that if wrenching out a molar is really what would make him purr with joy, then that's what he will do.

Chiefs edge Saints

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was actually a rather lackluster victory over one of pro football's young, struggling teams, but for Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs it may as well have been the game of the year.

"It was an important game for us," said Stram, after his Chiefs came from behind to edge the New Orleans Saints 20-17 Monday night in the National Football League's nationally televised game.

"We had been unimpressive in our last two games and we had to have it," said Stram. "I'm pleased we came back."

The Chiefs were sidetracked en route to the Super Bowl last season by the Miami Dolphins. When the Dolphins beat the Chiefs again last week, they were sitting on a two-game losing streak in league play.

Kansas City committed four turnovers in that game last week and lost the ball four times to the Saints Monday night.

But except when they were dropping it, the Chiefs did move the ball virtually at will against the Saints. Quarterback Lenny Dawson wound up with 21 completions in 29 attempts for 203 yards. He had one intercepted when his receiver slipped.

The Chiefs netted 324 yards offensively to 184 for the Saints and repeatedly showed the ability to march back and score each time New Orleans capitalized on a break to go ahead.

"Lenny did a great job of taking what they gave us," said Stram.

14 victory over the Packers.

"I'll tell you, now let me see," recalled Halas. "It was a wet day and there was some hitting at the line. Suddenly there was the ball. I grabbed it and started to run. When I realized it was Thorpe chasing me, I really put it on because I was running for my life."

"My how that Thorpe could hit. And, you know, he actually caught up to me. It was on about the eight-yard line. He hit me and we both went sliding into the end zone."

"Oh, I guess I could say something original like 'records are made to be broken' but reading about the game brought back memories."

Halas, hobbled by a old hip injury several years ago, went to England for a couple of operations and now bounces around with the nerve of a youngster.

He took a three-point stance and said, "What do you think, fellas, should I reactivate myself for one game and try to set a new record?"

MISSES FIFTH IN ROW

SETAUKET, N. Y. (AP) — Michele's Pride is the best harness horse Nick Balducci of Setauket has ever trained. After the 4-year-old mare missed winning her fifth straight race by less than one length, the 37-year-old trainer said: "She was the best horse in the race."

Michele's Pride suffered interference while running second with less than a half-mile to go in a $7,000 one-mile pace at Yonkers Raceway Aug. 1. Yet she was still battling the winner, even-money favorite Marty Dares, at the finish.

Southern Cal holds top slot in AP poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern California held onto the top spot in The Associated Press college football poll for the third consecutive week today while Michigan and Notre Dame cracked the Top Ten and defending champion Nebraska continued the long climb back.

The Trojans of Southern Cal received 28 first-place votes and 940 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following a 56-20 rout of Illinois.

Although they gained 20 points in the balloting over last week, the Trojans had their lead over Oklahoma trimmed from 80 to 46 points when the Sooners blasted Oregon 68-3 and piled up 14 first-place votes and 804 points.

Colorado whipped Minnesota 38-6 and held onto third place with five No. 1 votes and 728 points but Tennessee went from fifth to fourth with one first-place vote and 622 points thanks to a 45-6 walloping of Wake Forest while idle Ohio State dropped from fourth to fifth with one first-place vote and 544 points.

Alabama, a 35-0 winner over Kentucky, climbed from seventh to sixth with 468 points but

Nolan Ryan:

Ryan's Express in strikeout club

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Big Train did it. Now, it's Ryan's Express.

Nolan Ryan of the California Angels has joined an exclusive strikeout club of American League pitchers that includes the legendary Walter Johnson.

Johnson's whistling fastball helped him record more than 300 strikeouts in a season way back in 1910. Others who've reached that gaudy plateau are Rube Waddell, Bob Feller, Vida Blue, Mickey Lolich, Sam McDowell—and now, Ryan.

The Angels' hard-throwing right-hander fanned 12 Texas batters to bring his season's total to 302 as he beat the Rangers 2-1 on a three-hitter Monday night.

"Sure, I've given the 300 mark some thought," said Ryan, "but not a lot of thought until my last start when I got only four strikeouts in nine innings against Kansas City."

"I realized then that my arm was tired and my good fastball wasn't as good as it has to be. I got a little worried about it again tonight when my fastball was very ordinary for the first six innings."

His "very ordinary" fastball got eight Rangers on strikeouts in the first six innings.

Only one other game was played in the major leagues Monday night as the San Diego Padres defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 in a National League contest.

A scheduled American League game between the Oakland A's and Minnesota Twins was postponed by rain.

Ryan's most recent accomplishment in a season of successes no doubt gives the New York Mets some second thoughts about his trade this past winter. He was one of four players priced loose from the National League club for Jim Fregosi.

"I felt all along that I could be a winning pitcher in the majors if someone let me pitch every fourth day," said Ryan.

"I've gotten the chance to pitch every fourth day and I think I've proven my point rather well," he said after winning his 10th game and improving his major-league strikeout lead to 10 over Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Despite not allowing a hit the first three innings, the California ace found himself in a 1-0 hole when the Rangers scored an unearned run in the second. The Angels finally broke through against Texas starter Dick Bosman in the seventh with a run on Mickey Rivers' infield single and Vada Pinson's double.

Then with one out in the California eighth, Ryan hit a double, took third on Sandy Alomar's bounce and scored when Mickey Rivers' bouncer skipped through first baseman Larry Bittner's legs.

Pinch-hitter Randy Elliott came through with a run-scoring triple in the eighth inning to help San Diego beat Los Angeles.

Dist. 7AA news

The first showdown battle involving any of the "big three" teams in Div. 7AA football occurs this Friday night when Malvern plays at Hope. The Leopards, Bobcats, and Magnolia Panthers are the only unbeaten teams in conference play.

Other important dates for this trio are Oct. 13th Magnolia at Malvern, and Oct. 20th Hope at Magnolia.

Hope is 3-0 in conference play while Magnolia and Malvern are 2-0 each.

Other games this week Camden at Arkadelphia in loop action while non-league games send Fairview to Prescott; Magnolia to play unbeaten Haynesville, La.; Crossett is host to Warren, and Ashdown is host to DeQueen.

Games pretty well went according to form last week as Magnolia downed Camden 23-0, Hope defeated Fairview 20-0, Malvern bested Ashdown 28-7, and Arkadelphia edged past Crossett 23-22.

The Malvern Leopards became the first team to pass the one thousand yard mark in rushing (1,016) and J.R. Ross of the Leopards continues as the individual scoring leader. Ross has 7 touchdowns, is 14th in PAT, for a total of 56 points. Ross also has gained 717-yards FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Monday that he was "quite pleased" with improvement made by the Razorback offensive line in Saturday's game with Oklahoma State.

After viewing films of the OSU game, Broyles said "it looked like we showed improvement in execution in many ways over our Southern Cal game."

Broyles said defensive tackle Don Wunderly "played an outstanding game."

"It had to be one of the first games as tackle we've had here in a long, long time," the coach said. Wunderly had 12 tackles and two assists.

In changes Monday, line-backer Jim Benton was moved to defensive end and corner-back John Moseley was moved to free safety.

The Razorbacks practiced for about 1½ hours Monday in sweat clothes, concentrating on the kicking game and on recognition of Tulsa's pro passing and triple option attack.

Arkansas plays Tulsa Saturday afternoon at Fayetteville.

McGovern, Agnew speak out from opposite sides of POW issue

Associated Press Writer Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. George McGovern spoke out from opposite sides of the prisoner of war issue today as three U.S. prisoners headed home from North Vietnam by way of China.

Agnew accused the North Vietnamese of "using a handful of POWs to raise the hope of many American families" and added, "They are just exploiting these few people for their own propaganda aims."

He said that if North Vietnam is really sincere, it would "deal with the duly elected government of the United States instead of with every dissident antiwar group who is attempting to make a contact in behalf of mainly themselves rather than of the prisoners ..."

The three prisoners, who left Hanoi Monday in company of relatives of two of the men and members of a U.S. anti-war group, are Air Force Maj. Edward Elias and Navy Lts. Markham A. Gartley and Norris A. Charles.

McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, said in San Francisco that Nixon administration interference had caused departure of the prisoners from Hanoi to be delayed.

He said the President is afraid the men "will tell the awful truth about the war—that it is the bombing that keeps them in prison."

It was the third straight day McGovern has criticized the administration on the prisoner issue.

He said that in the past four years, "the Nixon administration has done nothing for the prisoners but add to their numbers." He said the government cared more about preserving the Saigon government than about the release of U.S. prisoners.

President Nixon was making his first campaign visit to New York City today to open a new immigration museum on Liberty Island, the site of the Statue of Liberty, and to attend a "victory '72" fund-raising dinner at the Americana Hotel. Mrs. Nixon was accompanying him.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver was introduced to a crowd in McAllen, Texas, Monday night as, "The best ambassador to France since Thomas Jefferson. He tamed the imperialist De Gaulle."

Shriver referred to Nixon as "tricky Dicky," saying when Nixon was campaigning against John Kennedy in 1960, he said: "You never had it so good."

and let me tell you," Shriver said, "and you know it, you've had it a lot better than you've had it under Nixon the last three years."

In other developments: —Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said the union endorses Nixon.

—Pollster Louis Harris said President Nixon had a 28 percentage point advantage—59 to 31 per cent with 10 per cent undecided—over Sen. McGovern in a poll conducted Sept. 19-21. It represented a six-point gain for McGovern over a poll on Sept. 1.

Police press search for fugitive

ASHFORD, Ala. (AP) — Peace officers pressed a search Monday night for a man charged with giving away his 3-month-old son in return for a used car. The infant's teen-age mother was turned over to Florida authorities for arraignment today at Naples, Fla.

"I feel so young and so old," said Jennifer Fire Sims, 19, the California-born mother of the baby.

"If I ever get out of this I'm going to raise my kids up right. I want to go back to California and get a job. Maybe I can work in the chicken factory and live with my mother."

Mrs. Sims, taken into custody by officers who found her hiding in a carnival truck at near-by Union Springs, Ala., said, "I don't want to run any more. I just want to get it all straightened out."

Her husband was sought in a wooded area near this South Alabama town. Florida authorities identified him as Eugene William Sims, 24, and said he went under his wife's maiden name of Fire while they worked in Florida tomato fields.

The couple, parents of two other young children, were charged with violating a law which makes it a felony to sell a child "for payment or something of value." The mother told the Birmingham

News she did not realize she had done anything wrong when she signed a paper giving their son to her landlady, Frances Vannoy, at Immokalee, Fla.

She and her husband signed a paper "and all it said was I so and so, give my son to so and so, and if I had known it was wrong, I would not have used my real name, would I?" she asked.

She also told Mrs. Vannoy she did not want the car in exchange for the infant, she said, and the landlady replied, "I'm just giving it to you. I've finished making all the payments and it's just a thank you."

The couple had been with a carnival seeking work when officers sought them on arrest warrants. The carnival owner, Jimmy Wright of Troy, said he had told them they could stay around and he would see they got something to eat and maybe would have work for them when the show moved to Ashford.

Sexy text raises ire of professor

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — An anatomy text with a sexy touch, coauthored by a Michigan State University professor, has drawn the wrath of a female professor.

"The Anatomical Basis of Medical Practice" contains photos of nude women splashing in the surf and posing seductively on swings. But R. Frederick Becker, a professor of biomechanics at MSU, insists he intended only to "liven up a pretty deadly area."

"I certainly don't think we were trying to exploit anybody's sexuality or anything like that," said the MSU instructor. He wrote the book with two other teachers while all three were teaching at Duke University.

But Dr. Estelle Ramey, a professor of physiology and biophysics at Georgetown University's School of Medicine, says the book is an "obscene denigration of women ... a lascivious approach to the study of anatomy."

In a letter to the 1,000-member Association of Women in Science (AWIS), of which she is president-elect, Dr. Ramey said, "The book was obviously intended to make a lot of money by gingering up a rather dull subject with the fun and games of prurient photographs of leering naked women in seductive poses."

Dr. Ramey said the writing in the book was "sexist," giving this quote as an example: "We are sorry that we cannot make available the addresses of the young ladies who grace our pages ... our wives burned our little address books ..."

Becker called her objections "ridiculous." "We set out to write with a breezy literary style," he said.

Is tap water drinkable?

Some 'impurities' important

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Regarding your column on tap water. It's probably safe from a bacteria standpoint, but what about all those chemical and industrial wastes. Are these sufficiently removed? Studies have shown less heart trouble in locations where there's hard water and lots of minerals. Perhaps this is because of the calcium, magnesium, salts, iron, aluminum and other metals in the water. Couldn't the person who drinks distilled water get these elements from vitamin pills?

The chemical wastes and other products dumped into the water are all lowered to acceptable limits in municipal water supplies. The complete mineral and chemical content of the water is fairly well regulated by public health regulations. This includes keeping enough chemicals in the water to prevent the growth or development of any significant bacteria even in the pipelines carrying water to different residences, and it includes being sure that the amount of chemical residues are within a range that will not be harmful to health.

Dear Reader — Yes,

you're absolutely right. Many of these chemicals and what we call "trace elements" are important in the body's function. Some of them are necessary for certain enzymes in the body. In many localities this is a good source of iodine which is essential to the body. The only other common sources of iodine are in iodized table salt or in seafood.

The trace metals of importance to the body are not found in vitamin tablets. You can find vitamin tablets that contain iron, but that's about it. So you can't rely on taking a vitamin tablet a day to provide all of the trace metals and chemicals that the body might need. Most of these are also included in the fruits and vegetables that people should be eating. I'd like to emphasize again that city water right out of the tap is probably the safest water source available to us.

Dear Dr. Lamb — At least two years ago I began feeling a numbness at night in my thumbs and two forefingers. Sometimes both. My family doctor sent me to a neurologist who advised X ray pictures of my neck and head and mentioned a possible pinched nerve. The picture showed nothing and my doctor prescribed nothing. The numbness continues and I think it gradually gets worse. Should I pursue the matter or learn to live with this condition.

Dear Reader — Pursue it. Arthritis of the neck region of the spine or changes in the spine in this area can press on the roots of the nerves that go to the arm. Other structures can also press on the nerves. In some people a muscle may be drawn tightly over the artery, nerve and vein, that goes to that part of the arm or in still other people, an extra rib (cervical rib) will create pressure.

In some people the position in which they sleep makes a difference. If you have the habit of sleeping with your arms above your head, try learning to sleep with them down at your side. With the arms raised, muscular pressure can cause pressure on the nerves which wouldn't show up on an X ray.

Minority struggle is exhibit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long struggle of the landless, blacks, women, Indians and others to win the right to vote is portrayed in a new exhibition at the Smithsonian Institution.

The show opening today at the Museum of History and Technology uses posters, pictures, music and other devices to portray how ballots were bestowed, sometimes with considerable rancor, to the disenfranchised.

In time, the exhibit runs from a land grant issued by King George III dated March 7, 1764, to the pen used by President Nixon to sign the amendment which gave the vote to some 25 million young voters in this year's presidential election.

There is a "voting machine" from colonial times which consists of drawers and colored marbles which the voter used to designate the candidate of his choice. There are drawings of something called a stuffer's ballot box, which had a false bottom and sides in which pre-marked ballot could be hidden prior to election day.

The soldier vote may have been the easiest won. During the Civil War, Union soldiers were given ballots in the field to take part in the 1864 election between Abraham Lincoln and Gen. George McClellan.

After the war, thousands of Southern whites were disenfranchised by a Union Congress until the end of the Reconstruction era. Negroes, in turn, were guaranteed the right to vote by the 15th amendment to the Constitution, only to lose it through such devices as literacy tests, poll taxes and other restrictions.

The struggle for women's suffrage was a long one, starting with a "declaration of sentiments" drawn up by Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and others in 1848. The table on which it was drafted is on display, along with an inkwell and Susan Anthony's shawl.

Women didn't win the right to vote until 1920, after many of them had gone to jail for their roles in militant demonstrations.

A continuous slide show accompanying the more than 200 items portrays scenes from this long struggle.

Amtrak rail service to Mexico to be restored

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Passenger train service to Laredo and Mexico will be restored by Christmas, Rep. Henry Gonzalez said Monday.

The San Antonio Democrat reported from Washington that AMTRAK president Roger Lewis informed him of the plans.

No details were available, Gonzalez said, except that Lewis told him service from Temple, Tex., through Austin and San Antonio to Laredo will begin "by this fall or, at the latest, by Christmas."

The last passenger train to Mexico was the Missouri Pacific's Texas Eagle, which ended its run between Texarkana and Laredo in 1970.

Temple is a connecting point with another AMTRAK passenger train that runs daily between Houston and Chicago.

That train travels through Temple, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Kansas City to Chicago.

Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., who pushed through Congress AMTRAK legislation authorizing funds for international service to Mexico and Canada, said from Washington Monday that AMTRAK will use Missouri Pacific tracks from Laredo to Taylor, Tex. He said Santa Fe tracks will be used from Temple north.

Yet to be decided is the routing on the brief stretch between Taylor and Temple, Pickle said.

He said AMTRAK is to take official action on the U.S.-Mexico route at a board meeting Thursday.

Pickle reported the service will connect across the border at Nuevo Laredo with a Mexican train to Mexico City.

Girl returns from the 'dead'

CHICAGO (AP) — It was "like having a new daughter born," said the father of a runaway girl who contacted police after her parents mistakenly identified her as one of two teen-agers found slain in a park.

Rosemarie Pilewicz, 17, said she read a newspaper report of her death and thought, "How can the world say this? I'm breathing."

Her parents had reported her missing Aug. 10.

Her return left police with the bodies of two nameless girls, each shot once in the back of the head with a .32-caliber pistol and left lying face up in Washington Park on the city's South Side. They were found early Saturday by a jogger.

Asked how she mistakenly identified one of the dead girls as her daughter, Violet Pilewicz said, "The girl was just like a twin. Even the earrings were the same."

Introducing the Hornet Hatchback. It sure doesn't look like an economy car.

Model illustrated, $2399.00, equipped with special trim package, sports steering wheel, slot-style wheels and Polyglas tires, optional at extra cost. Prices subject to change without notice.

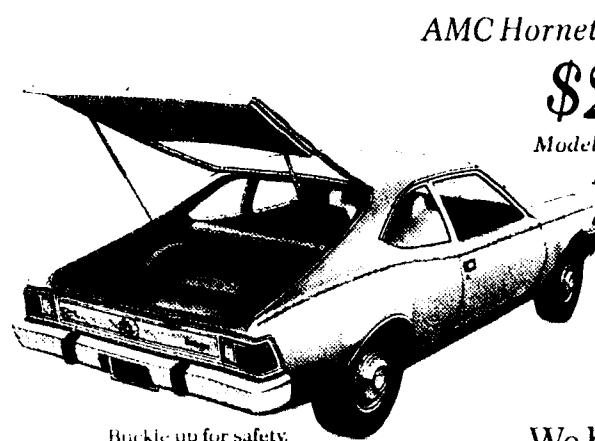

And it sure doesn't act like one. The big 6-cylinder engine makes it fly. The steering is quick and precise. When you need extra cargo space, the back seats fold down so you can load up through the hatch for a long vacation.

You see, the Hornet Hatchback is really a sports car with room to travel in. A car that does everything a sports car should do. It moves like one, handles like one, but it doesn't cost like one. It comes standard with a piece of equipment no other economy car has, The Buyer Protection Plan. Only American Motors makes this promise: The Buyer Protection Plan backs every '73 car we build and we'll see that our dealers back that promise.

The new energy absorbing bumper system on Hornet telescopes the front bumper as much as 3 inches and returns to normal after repeated 5 mile per hour barrier impacts. It's one of the most advanced systems in the industry.

Buckle up for safety.

AMERICAN MOTORS BUYER PROTECTION PLAN

1. A simple, strong guarantee. Just 101 words! When you buy a new 1973 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship. This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada, and that guaranteed repairs or replacement be made by an American Motors dealer.
2. A free loaner car from almost every one of our dealers if guaranteed repairs take overnight.
3. Special Trip Interruption Protection.
4. And a toll free hotline to AMC Headquarters.

STATE POLICE VOLUNTEER TO WORK OVERTIME

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Police announced today that most troopers have volunteered to work an extra day each week through October as part of a new series of steps to try to curb the rising highway fatality rate in Arkansas.

State policemen normally work five 10-hour days each week, but most will work six days during October. No officer will be required to work the sixth day, but an announcement by the State Police said a poll indicated that at least 90 per cent of the troopers would participate in the program.

Officials said other measures during the stepped-up enforcement program will include discontinuance of the use of warnings for moving hazardous traffic violations, formation of a "flying squad" composed of seven officers who will work as a group and furnish additional enforcement power in problem areas of the state and the increased use of the two State Police airplanes to patrol highways.

Shriver welcomed in Texas

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — The night and the people were warm when the candidate came to the lectern. "We want Shriver," they chanted. "We want Shriver."

The people stood in front of the gazebo in Archer Park in family groups. Toddlers, old men in straw hats. Boys and girls holding bicycles. Young men with glistening brown faces. A woman waving a hand-lettered sign: "Shriver is swell." An old man in a wheelchair with a McGovern-Shriver sticker.

Ralph Yarborough, former U.S. senator from Texas—but still possessed of the honeyed tones and evangelist's zeal—introduced the vice presidential candidate.

"The best ambassador to France since Thomas Jefferson," Yarborough said. "He tamed the imperialist De Gaulle."

THERE'S A LOT RIDING ON YOUR VOTE.

Maybe your job. You might not even be able to hear a train whistle blow from where you work, but your job is connected to railroading nevertheless. Maybe your company ships its products by rail. Maybe it receives raw materials or parts by rail. Maybe your company does no rail business, but makes its living off companies who do. And so on. The railroads are forced to waste millions of dollars every year in Arkansas because of the Train Crew Laws. This huge waste threatens your job, because the cost of the unneeded train crewmen must be shared by businesses involved with railroading. Here's the part that really ought to get you: the train crewmen probably have more job protection than you do already. The only job which is threatened is yours. If for no other reason, vote FOR Act 1.
